The manuscript is well written and should be of interest to the readers. It presents the importance of endoscopic third ventriculostomy in the treatment of children with meningomieloceles. Regarding to this article, I have suggested major and minor points of review.

Major points of review:

- When describing the VP shunt used, consider to provide information about the hardware

Minor points of review:

- On Page 5, line 26 to 29: "Despite treatment, the median survival of hydrocephalus is ir ", please reference.

Finally, I really enjoyed reading this paper studying this controversial subject.

Overall, I consider an important work, and I would recommend it for publishing considering the suggested changes.
